President Is Assured There Will Be No Trouble in Washington State.

Blair Lee Has Conference at White House on Maryland Affairs.

Washington, March 26.-Hugh C. Todd, Democratic State chairman of Todd, Democratic State chairman of Washington, has a plan for preventing party conflict over patronage that appeals strongly to President Wilson, it was said to-day, and the President would be glad to see the same sort of a plan put into effect in other States where there has been talk of factional differences over division of patronage. differences over division of patronage. Mr. Todd, who came within a few votes of being his party's nominee for Gov-ernor last November, talked for some time to-day with the President. He assured the President that there would be no row in Washington as to appointments.

Democratic leaders and organizations should be guided by an imper-sonal attitude," said Mr. Todd. "They should not attempt to reward political friends and punish political enemies, regardless of party service or fitness for position. The merits of applicants should be the guide, and the President's real friends should seek to give him and his Cabinet members an intimate knowledge of the aspirant's qualifications, with a view to a higher standard of public service. I shall follow that policy and recommend only such men as I would appoint myself if I had the appointing power. Our national committeeman and myself are working together along these lines.

"When an appointment is made on the recommendation of our organization I expect to be judged by that ap-pointment in a degree the same as the President and his administration will be judged. This is not a time for patronage rows, and we will have none.
"Although I was a Wilson advocate a year before his nomination, it will be who were for Clark as well as for Wil-son. One's advocacy of a certain can-cidate for the nomination should not iminate and the President finds it. Neither will the President tolertt. Neither will the President tolert discrimination against Wilson men

Not to Permit Discrimination.

The President, it is positively known,
will not permit discrimination against good men because they supported some one else for the nomination. While he may never know the inside facts in overy recommendation made to him, it every recommendation made to him, it will not be well, it is said in high quarters, for any man who attempts to dis-

n States where the other fellows have the organization.

President Wilson to-day issued a feets appointment to Dr. Charles P. Neill as commissioner of labor statistic commission. President Taft nominated Neill as commissioner of labor statistics, and will, as already stated, again send the nomination to the Senate when Congress meets. That confirmation of the nomination will be fought in the senate by certain Southern Senators has been foreshadowed. These Senators say they will be able to defeat the nomination. President Wilson to-day received the Yale baseball team.

W. J. Lambert, John H. Hanna, Charles A. McKenny and G. Thomas Lunlop, prominent Washingtonians, who were in one of the first classes taught by President Wilson at Princeton, called on him to-day to exchange for the senatorship except Senator Smith, who desires to succeed himself. Louisiana's opposition to a tariff bill providing for free sugar was manifested at the White House to-day when Senator Ransdell and Ex-Senator Foster, of that State, called to tell the was prominent in the fight for Wilsenberg was prominent Lee wants the Rayner vacancy. W. Cabell Bruce, who, with Mr. Marbury, was prominent in the fight for Wilson delegates from Maryland last year, is understood to be a candidate against Senator Lee for the short term, but he is not publicly in the field.

Fight Against Senator Smith, The whole fight is one against Sen-ator Smith and the Democratic brganization in Maryland, and what is worrying the progressive leaders more than anything else is that Senator Smith may control the patronage that will soon be coming due, Smith's approval is necessary on some of the big appointments soon putting across two senators in the November primary, held at the same time as the general election. Senator Smith will have a great deal to say in the Senate as to confirmation of nominations, and he does not pro-pose to have nominations made from the White House that are hostile to him if he can help it. So the struggle now is largely one of White House
